Appeal of the Decision and Order – Denying Benefits of Rudolf L. Jansen, Administrative Law Judge, United States Department of Labor.

Edmond Collett (Edmond Collett, P.S.C.), Hyden, Kentucky, for claimant.

Jeffrey S. Goldberg (Jonathan L. Snare, Acting Solicitor of Labor; Allen H. Feldman, Associate Solicitor; Rae Ellen Frank James, Deputy Associate Solicitor; Michael J. Rutledge, Counsel for Administrative Litigation and Legal Advice), Washington, D.C., for the Director, Office of Workers' Compensation Programs, United States Department of Labor.

Before: DOLDER, Chief Administrative Appeals Judge, SMITH and BOGGS, Administrative Appeals Judges.

PER CURIAM:

Claimant appeals the Decision and Order–Denying Benefits (2003-BLA-6672) of Administrative Law Judge Rudolf L. Jansen (the administrative law judge) on a subsequent claim filed pursuant to the provisions of Title IV of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969, as amended, 30 U.S.C. §901 et seq. (the Act).¹ The administrative law judge found that the parties stipulated to a coal mine employment history of four and one-half years and found that the stipulation was supported by the record. Decision and Order at 4. The administrative law judge reviewed the newly developed evidence and found it insufficient to establish the existence of pneumoconiosis pursuant to 20 C.F.R. §718.202(a) and total disability pursuant to 20 C.F.R. §718.204(b). Decision and Order at 10-15. Consequently, the administrative law judge found that claimant did not establish that one of the applicable conditions of entitlement had changed since the denial of his prior claim, see 20 C.F.R. §725.309, and thus the administrative law judge denied benefits.

On appeal, claimant asserts that the administrative law judge erred in finding the newly submitted evidence insufficient to establish the existence of pneumoconiosis or total disability. Claimant also contends that the Director, Office of Workers' Compensation Programs (the Director), has failed to provide him with a complete, credible pulmonary evaluation. Employer responds, urging affirmance of the denial of benefits. The Director has submitted a letter, urging that the Board reject claimant's argument that he was not provided with a complete, credible pulmonary evaluation.²

The Board's scope of review is defined by statute. The administrative law judge's Decision and Order must be affirmed if it is rational, supported by substantial evidence, and in accordance with applicable law. 33 U.S.C. §921(b)(3), as incorporated by 30 U.S.C. §932(a); O'Keefe v. Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, Inc., 380 U.S. 359 (1965).

To be entitled to benefits under the Act, claimant must demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that he is totally disabled due to pneumoconiosis arising out of coal mine employment. 30 U.S.C. §901; 20 C.F.R. §§718.3, 718.202, 718.203, 718.204. Failure to establish any element of entitlement precludes an award of benefits. Anderson v. Valley Camp of Utah, Inc., 12 BLR 1-111, 1-112 (1989); Trent v. Director, OWCP, 11 BLR 1-26, 1-27 (1987); Perry v. Director, OWCP, 9 BLR 1-1 (1986) (en banc).

Claimant asserts that the administrative law judge erred in finding the newly submitted x-ray evidence insufficient to establish the existence of pneumoconiosis. Claimant specifically contends that the administrative law judge improperly relied on the qualifications of the physicians interpreting the x-rays as negative and the numerical superiority of the negative x-ray interpretations. Contrary to claimant's assertion, the administrative law judge is to consider the qualifications of the physicians in weighing conflicting x-ray evidence and determining the weight to be assigned the x-ray interpretations.³

² We affirm, as unchallenged on appeal, the administrative law judge's length of coal mine employment determination and the findings that claimant failed to establish the existence of pneumoconiosis pursuant to 20 C.F.R. §718.202(a)(2), (3) and total disability pursuant to 20 C.F.R. §718.204(b)(2)(i)-(iii). See Skrack v. Island Creek Coal Co., 6 BLR 1-710 (1983).

In considering the newly submitted x-ray evidence, the administrative found that Dr. Simpao, a physician with no particular expertise in interpreting x-rays, rendered a positive reading of an x-ray taken on August 28, 2001, Director's Exhibit 6, and that Dr. Sargent, a B reader and Board-certified radiologist,⁴ read the same film for quality only, Director's Exhibit 7. The administrative law judge further found that Dr. Baker read an x-ray taken on August 25, 2001 as positive, Director's Exhibit 12,⁵ while Dr. Wiot, a B reader and Board-certified radiologist read the same film as negative, Director's Exhibit 28. Lastly, the administrative law judge found that the May 19, 2004 x-ray film was read as negative by Dr. Wiot, Director's Exhibit 40.

³ Section 718.202(a)(1) provides in pertinent part:

where two or more X-ray reports are in conflict, in evaluating such X-ray reports consideration shall be given to the radiological qualifications of physicians interpreting such X-rays [emphasis added].

20 C.F.R. §718.202(a)(1).

The administrative law judge found that the x-ray evidence failed to affirmatively establish the existence of pneumoconiosis because the negative interpretations of Dr. Wiot, who had radiological credentials superior to those of Drs. Baker and Simpao, were entitled to greatest weight. This was proper. Decision and Order at 6, 9-10; 20 C.F.R. §§718.102(c), 718.202(a)(1); Staton v. Norfolk & Western Railway Co., 65 F.3d 55, 19 BLR 2-271 (6th Cir. 1995); Woodward v. Director, OWCP, 991 F.2d 314, 17 BLR 2-77 (6th Cir. 1993); Worhach v. Director, OWCP, 17 BLR 1-105 (1993); Edmiston v. F & R Coal Co., 14 BLR 1-65 (1990); Clark v. Karst-Robbins Coal Co., 12 BLR 1-149 (1989) (en banc); Kuchwara v. Director, OWCP, 7 BLR 1-167 (1984).⁶ Likewise, claimant's contention that the administrative law judge "may have selectively analyzed" the x-ray evidence is rejected as claimant points to no evidence or finding by the administrative law judge that supports this contention. White v. New White Coal Co., 23 BLR 1-1, 1-4-5 (2004). Accordingly, the administrative law judge's finding that the x-ray evidence did not establish the existence of pneumoconiosis pursuant to 20 C.F.R. §718.202(a)(1) is affirmed.

Claimant also asserts that the administrative law judge erred in not finding the existence of pneumoconiosis established pursuant to Section 718.202(a)(4), based on the newly submitted opinion of Dr. Baker. Claimant's Brief at 4-5. In reviewing the newly submitted medical opinion evidence, the administrative law judge properly considered the quality of the evidence in determining whether the opinions were supported by their underlying documentation and were adequately explained.

The administrative law judge found the opinion of Dr. Broudy, who opined that claimant did not have coal workers' pneumoconiosis or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, Director's Exhibit 40, to be the most convincing opinion of record as the opinion was the best reasoned and documented of the newly submitted evidence, i.e., Dr. Broudy found no objective evidence of clinical or legal pneumoconiosis and based his opinion on a thorough medical examination. This was proper. Decision and Order at 11-13; see Eastover Mining Co. v. Williams, 338 F.3d 501, 22 BLR 2-623 (6th Cir. 2003); Wolf Creek Collieries v. Director, OWCP [Stephens], 298 F.3d 511, 22 BLR 2-495 (6th Cir. 2002); Worhach, 17 BLR at 1-108; Collins v. J & L Steel, 21 BLR 1-181 (1999); Trumbo v. Reading Anthracite Co., 17 BLR at 1-89 n. 4 (1993) (administrative law judge must consider each report to determine if that report's underlying documentation supports its conclusion); Clark, 12 BLR at 1-155; Fields v. Island Creek Coal Co., 10 BLR 1-19 (1987); Wetzel v. Director, OWCP, 8 BLR 1-139 (1986). Further, the administrative law judge acted within his discretion, as fact-finder, in concluding that Dr. Baker's opinion was poorly reasoned and documented and thus insufficient to support a finding of pneumoconiosis because Dr. Baker's diagnosis of coal worker's pneumoconiosis was based solely upon a positive x-ray reading and claimant's history of coal mine employment and because Dr. Baker's diagnosis of chronic bronchitis by history was based on a self-reported history, without objective basis or explanation. Decision and Order at 11; Director's Exhibit 12; 20 C.F.R. §718.201; see Cornett v. Benham Coal, Inc., 227 F.3d 569, 22 BLR 2-107 (6th Cir. 2000); Island Creek Coal Co. v. Compton, 211 F.3d 203, 211, 22 BLR 1-62, 1-175 (4th Cir. 2000); Tedesco v. Director, OWCP, 18 BLR 1-103 (1994); Lucostic v. United States Steel Corp., 8 BLR 1-46 (1985); Winters v. Director, OWCP, 6 BLR 1-877, 1-888 n. 4 (1984).

Claimant further contends that the Director has failed to fulfill his statutory obligation of providing claimant with a complete, credible pulmonary evaluation. See 30 U.S.C. §923(b); 20 C.F.R. §§718.101, 725.401, 725.405(b). Specifically, claimant alleges that since, in evaluating the newly submitted evidence at Section 718.202(a)(4), the administrative law judge found that Dr. Simpao's opinion was poorly reasoned, the Director has not fulfilled his statutory duty. Claimant's Brief at 5-6. Contrary to claimant's assertion, however, the administrative law judge permissibly found Dr. Simpao's opinion to be outweighed by the better explained opinion of Dr. Broudy, Decision and Order at 11-12. As the Director contends, Dr. Simpao provided claimant with a complete, credible evaluation. The administrative law judge, however, permissibly found that the opinion was not as probative on the issue of pneumoconiosis as the opinion of Dr. Broudy. We, therefore, reject claimant's assertion that remand of this case for a complete, credible pulmonary evaluation is necessary. 30 U.S.C. §923(b); see Barnes v. ICO Corp., 31 F.3d 673, 18 BLR 2-319 (8th Cir. 1994); Cline v. Director, OWCP, 917 F.2d 9, 11, 14 BLR 2-102, 2-105 (8th Cir. 1990); Newman v. Director, OWCP, 745 F.2d 1162, 7 BLR 2-25, 2-31 (8th Cir. 1984). Accordingly, we affirm the administrative law judge's determination that the newly submitted medical opinion evidence did not support a finding of the existence of pneumoconiosis pursuant to Section 718.202(a)(4).

Regarding the administrative law judge's weighing of the medical opinion evidence relevant to 20 C.F.R. §718.204(b)(2)(iv), claimant asserts that in addressing the issue of total disability, the administrative law judge is required to consider the exertional requirements of claimant's usual coal mine employment in conjunction with the medical assessments of claimant's respiratory impairment. Claimant's Brief at 4-5. Specifically, claimant maintains that:

The claimant's usual coal mine work included being an equipment operator. It can be reasonably concluded that such duties involved the claimant being exposed to heavy concentrations of dust on a daily basis. Taking into consideration the claimant's condition against such duties, as well as the opinion of Dr. Baker, it is rational to conclude that the claimant's condition prevents him from engaging in his usual employment in that such employment occurred in a dusty environment and involved exposure to dust on a daily basis.

Claimant's Brief at 8. Claimant contends that Dr. Baker's opinion, Director's Exhibit 12, is well-reasoned and documented and supportive of a finding of total disability. We disagree.

The administrative law judge found that Dr. Baker's conclusion that a return to a dusty environment would be medically contraindicated does not constitute an assessment of total respiratory disability. Decision and Order at 12. This finding was proper. Zimmerman v. Director, OWCP, 871 F.2d 564, 12 BLR 2-254 (6th Cir. 1989). In addition, the administrative law judge permissibly found that the newly submitted opinion of Dr. Simpao, that claimant had a mild pulmonary impairment preventing a return to coal mine employment, Director's Exhibit 6, was not well-reasoned as the physician failed to explain how his diagnosis was consistent with the findings on objective testing and failed to discuss how the physical requirements of claimant's usual coal mine employment related to his diagnosis. Decision and Order at 11-12; see Williams, 338 F.3d at 513, 22 BLR at 2-647; Cornett, 227 F.3d at 578, 22 BLR at 2-124. Rather, in a permissible exercise of his discretion, the administrative law judge, accorded superior weight to the opinion of Dr. Broudy, as the physician based his opinion on a thorough examination and consideration of the test results and the exertional requirements of claimant's coal mine employment.

Claimant further contends that the administrative law judge "made no mention of the claimant's age, education or work experience in conjunction with his assessment that the claimant was not totally disabled." Claimant's Brief at 5-6. These factors, however, are not relevant in determining whether claimant is totally disabled from his usual coal mine employment. Ramey v. Kentland-Elkhorn Coal Corp., 755 F.2d 485, 7 BLR 2-124 (6th Cir. 1985); Taylor v. Evans & Gambrel Co., 12 BLR 1-83 (1988). In addition, claimant argues that, inasmuch as pneumoconiosis is a progressive and irreversible disease, it can be concluded that his pneumoconiosis has worsened since it was initially diagnosed and thus, has adversely affected his ability to perform his usual coal mine work or comparable and gainful work. Claimant's Brief at 9. The revised regulation at 20 C.F.R. §718.201(c) recognizes that pneumoconiosis can be a latent and progressive disease. Claimant, in this case, however, has not established that he has pneumoconiosis by way of medical evidence, or that it has worsened over time. We therefore decline to address this allegation further, see White 23 BLR at 1-7 n. 8, and in light of our foregoing discussion, we affirm the administrative law judge's finding that the newly submitted evidence is insufficient to establish total respiratory disability at 20 C.F.R. §718.204(b)(2)(iv). The administrative law judge's finding that the new evidence fails to establish total respiratory disability overall is also affirmed. 20 C.F.R. §718.204(b)(2)(i)-(iv).

The administrative law judge's finding that the evidence developed since the prior denial of benefits did not establish the existence of pneumoconiosis or a totally disabling respiratory impairment, 20 C.F.R. §§718.202(a); 718.204(b)(2), is, therefore, affirmed. Consequently, we affirm the administrative law judge's finding that claimant did not establish that an applicable condition of entitlement has changed since the denial of his prior claim pursuant to Section 725.309(d), and we affirm the administrative law judge's denial of benefits.

Accordingly, the administrative law judge's Decision and Order—Denying Benefits is affirmed.

SO ORDERED.
