Subject: Illnesses reported by claimants

Hi,

In December 2015 McClatchy DC did a series of news articles on nuclear weapons workers. The first article was entitled "Irradiated: The Hidden Legacy of 70 Years of Atomic Weaponry" As part of this project they developed an online database of information on a little over 105,000 nuclear weapons workers who, either by themselves or their survivors, had applied for EEOICPA benefits. The dates covered were from EEOICPA's inception through July 2015. McClatchy received the information used to construct the database from DEEOIC through FOIA. Here is a link to the database:

I downloaded the data from this database into a spreadsheet. I thought the data on illnesses claimed by claimants might be useful to the Subcommittee on Presumptions. As I understand it these were the illnesses that were claimed on the EE-1 and not necessarily the illnesses the claim was approved for. I've included jobs and facilities the claimants listed as well. Many workers worked numerous jobs and at numerous facilities. The spreadsheet covers only the first job the worker did and the first facility they worked at.

Hope this is helpful,
