Grantee Name	Indiana Commission for Women
Grantee City and State	Indianapolis, Indiana
Grant Amount Requested	202,500
Location of Grant Activities	Statewide
Project Description	The Indiana Commission for Women, in collaboration with the Indiana Institute for Working Families, proposes to lead Paid Leave the Hoosier Way: Finding Solutions for Workers and Caregivers in Indiana. The Commission and its partners will convene an advisory panel of state experts and advocates to set local goals for a paid leave program and develop up to eight proposed plans for analysis. The Commission will engage in cost-benefit modeling of the locally-developed proposals, including analysis on the potential effects of paid family leave programs on SNAP and TANF uptake rates. The information will then be used to develop educational materials for statewide outreach efforts. The products will be refined through ethnographic interview research and talkback testing conducted by Topos Partnership. The grant will also be used to provide support for polling research on public interest in elements of the proposed plans and stakeholder interviews with low-income families. All data will be shared through multiple outlets including a final report, a webinar, Indiana Institute for Working Families policy briefs and educational materials, and a statewide symposium, as well as at the 2017 Women’s Bureau Symposium.
